

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to ask permission to mount a copy of an article of mine which was published in one of your journals in my institution's repository, DigitalCommons@Olin, <http://digitalcommons.olin.edu>.

The article(s) is/are:

Article Title

Journal Title

Volume/Issue

Copyright year

Page numbers

The institutional repository is a not-for-profit service for academic authors, providing access to the full-text of their publications. Each article includes full bibliographic details, a copyright notice, and a link back to the journal's homepage.

If possible, it is preferred to archive the finalized pdf version as it appears in print. The pdf version has an advantage over mounting the author's own version, in that it maintains consistency in appearance of the article wherever it is read. This also maintains a closer association of the article with the Journal, through the header-title and journal house-style.

I would be grateful if you could contact me to give your permission for including articles published in your publications and to pass on any conditions that are associated. Do I have your permission to use the published pdf version of the article for this purpose? If not, please specify which version, if any, I may post to the site and any associated conditions.

If you do not solely control copyright in the requested materials, I would appreciate any information you can provide about others to whom I should write, including most recent addresses if available.

Thank you for your attention with this--I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

If you are able to grant permission to post other articles not specifically mentioned above, please acknowledge below:

Do I have your permission to post articles published in the future by this journal/publisher to _IR_ (_website_) subject to the conditions specified above?